Hosting and Housing – For your Security

Secure Hosting/Housing – Comprehensive and Uncompromising

In the age of electronics the amount of data exponentially increases and informatics have become a securing factor for continuance and success of many companies. Only a highly available and protected IT infrastructure nowadays enables us to flexibly and successfully operate in various markets. In the future the importance of IT systems as well as the dependence on them will continuously increase. The responsibility for the secure and protected operation of these systems and the highly developed backup processes are already today the duty of a company's management as an important and task.

The world-wide events in the year 2001 have given violence and terror a new face. Modern communication facilities enable the international terrorism to be very well organised and reach unlimited dimensions. As a company you very quickly become a target for acts of terrorism, sabotage, espionage and larceny. Those can be planned attacks or you become an accidental victim.

To secure the continuance of a company effectively and on a long-term basis (management task) the entire IT infrastructure must be protected from negative influences of any kind. High security premises for your individual protection and security needs, provided and operated by us, are our competence. Swiss Data Safe Ltd. takes over the responsibility for the protection of your important, sensitive and existential data and systems. We take the responsibility for our customers.

Why External Hosting/Housing

The operation of IT systems in an external high security environment enables you to separate your business activity from the necessary tools and create a maximum protection. The vulnerability of your business and the potential risk of massive damage of any kind can be substantially decreased. An automated data backup and the safe keeping of tapes in an additional high security environment, based on a well-organised data maintenance process, ensures the availability of the newest data anytime and anywhere.
